All the great literary lights that the pres-ent generation has looked up to with love and veneration are passing away. Tenny-son's death makes another great gap in the ranks of the world's foremost poets.

Mr. John F. Merrill, of Quincy, the republican nominee for senator is one of the most successful and popular business men of that wide-awake city. He has twice represented this district in the gen-eral court in a thoroughly acceptable and commendable manner and will, if elected, prove a fit representative of the first dis-

Gov. Russell has been a lucky card for the County fairs. He has attended many and has always been welcomed by pleasant weather. In three cases it has rained in the morning but upon the governor's ap-pearance the clouds have rolled away. Thus the governor has the happy reputa-tion of carrying fair weather wherever he Senatorial Convention.

As was anticipated the contest over the nomination of a senatorial candidate in the First Norfolk Republican Convention was a sharp one and it required seven hours of balloting to reach the desired result. As previously announced there were four candidates in the first seven hours of balloting to reach the desired result. As previously announced there were four candidates in the field—Louis A. Cook Esq. of South Weymouth, John M. Cook Leq. of South Weymouth, John M. Cook Leq. of South Weymouth, John M. Cook Ind. First Head Weymouth and Canton; Mr. Werstall had nine, Quiney and one from Milton; Mr. Woodsum had flow, Holbrook and Braintree and Mr. Wyman had ten, Hyde Fark, Randolph and Holbrook, on the informal hallot. Hyde Hark, Randolph and Holbrook, on the informal hallot, which were the work of the first time had 10 votes while men who was a break and he lost the two Randolph men and one of his own delegates and Merrill for the first time had 10 votes while Wyman's figure was 11. Cook rose to 11 on the next ballot, Merrill and Wyman both losing and again held the lead till the 25th losing and again held the lead till the 25th losing and again held the lead till the 25th losing and again held the lead till the 25th and Cook held his original 10. Wyman lost one man on the next ballot although still ahead; on the 27th he fell back to 10 and on the next ballot fell behind Cook who again got the lead and held it for the next ballots. On the 36th hallot the Canton delegates left Cook for Woodsum sand the former dropped to the lowest figure he next ballots. On the 36th hallot the Canton delegates left Cook for Woodsum sand the former dropped to the lowest figure he next ballot men and merrill led and the first held the candolph. On the remaining 46 ballots Cook led 21 times, and three times received 17 votes, 1 less than the requisite number.

Wyman led four times and Merrill led and the former dropped to the lowest figure he next ballot by one from Braintre mouth, 2. Total 20.

Hyde Park clung obstinately to Wyman throughout and even on the last ballot threw the solid vote of the delegation for the Woodson government of the Woodson government of the Market of the State Central committee. A resolution was adopted favoring Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge for United States Senator.

follow. This is false, and the physician who makes such a statement does so because he knows absolutely nothing either of the disease or its treatment.

It is a most serious disease, a diagerous condition to be in, and its consequences to life and health are incalcuable. Every sufferer knows that it is no trivial complaint which is slowly but surely snapping lis very life, which he feels day by day is exhausting his strength, paralyzing his energies and rendering him weak and in efficient as a man, darkening all his future with gloom and despair, and leaving him a mere wreck—a semblance, as it were, of the strength and vigor he formerly poseessed.

The moral of this is for sufferers to seek a cure now while the disease is curable, and not wait until the disease is incurable and at a hopless stage. —At last the so-called Middle-street school will have a name. strength.

To such Dr. Greene's ably constructive remarks were at once a revelation, a warning and an encouragement. Brought in daily contact with so many of these sufferers, he above all other physicians is most eminently qualified to advise, direct and treat such cases. Himself a man of great sympathies, with a charity and knowledge of the fraility and weakness of human nature, he believes that it is not the physician's province to blame men for the results of ignorance, but rather by good advice, council and encouragement to free the patient's despondent mind from the gloom and weight of apprehension which has heretofore hung over him like a cloud, while at the same time he brings his skill and medicines to beart og gradually but surely restore him to heatth, strength and vitality.

Now what are the symptoms which indicate this condition of lost vitality?

Dizziness.

Extreme nervousness.

Loss of memory.

Flushing of the face.

Dull feeling head and eyes.

Nervous tremors and tremblings.

Fiuttering and pal-pitation of the heart.

Despondency and depression of the mind.

Inability to fix the mind for any length of time upon one subject.

Loss of self-confidence, distaste for company, desire to be alone.

Waking mornings tited and anytheneted.

These are the

and they are plain to every one.

Now, it is a sad fact that some physicians pretend to regard the complaint lightly, and assure patients that no injury will follow. This is false, and the physician who makes such a statement does so because he knows absolutely nothing either of the disease or its treatment.

It is a most serious disease, a dangerous condition to be in, and its consequences to life and health are incalcuable. Every sufferer knows that it is no trivial complaint which is slowly but surely snapping his very life, which he feels day by day is exhausting his strength, paralyzing his energies and rendering him weak and inefficient as a man, darkening all his future with gloom and despair, and leaving him a mere wreck—a semblance, as it were, of the strength and vigor he formerly pos-and not wait until the disease is incurable and at a hopless stage.

The disease is a perfectly curable one, but requires great skill and experience upon the part of the physician, and above all the exact medicines necessary to effect the cure.

BASE BALL. Institutes, 5; North Abingtons, 2.

On Saturday afternoon the interest of a large portion of the people centered upon the ball game between the above clubs. The Institutes had defeated the North Weymouths on Thursday and as person of the state of the Saturday, so the game came off. The North Abingtons on Saturday, so the game came off. The North Abingtons had strengthened their team by "Buster" Burrell as catcher, Fitzgerald centre field and by two other changes, all four of the new men being secured for their batting abilities. The Institutes played the same nine as on Thursday with the exceptions that Reardon played shorts the same nine as on Thursday with the exceptions that Reardon played shorts put back in centre field.

The game opened favorably for the Institutes, they securing three runs in the first inning, the North Abingtons being shut out in their half. In the second, neither side scored. In the third the North Abingtons made one. The Institutes added one in the forth and another in the second, neither side scored. In the third the North Abingtons made one. The Institutes added one in the forth and another in the second, again till the sixth, when they made their second and last run for the game. The Institutes did not score again either and the game closed as it was at the end of the sixth inning, 5 to 2.

The special features of the game were the battery work of both teams. Lake caught a great game and showed great head work several times, once in particular, in the eighth, when, with two men on bases and two out, he deliberately gave "Buster' his base on balls rather than risk then struck out the next man. Dicky Whelan made a great actach of a hot liner and a double play on it. Murphy played first for all it was worth. Kiley covered second in his usual style but Lake could not seem to throw to him. Reardon was unfortunate, making two errors, but they were somewhat excussable as all were took the sixth in the reardon was unfortunate, making two errors, but they were somewhat excussable as all were took to take it and confused Reardo derivative de attend all our services.

The Tariff and the Farmer.

Let any farmer take his account with the stores where he has to spend his earnings for the necessaries and the comforts of his home, and let him set against each article of expense the amount he pays in the way of tariff. He will then at once see where his money goes. Except for the simpler articles of food, he will discover that everything he uses bears a tax of from ten to seventy-five cents on each dollar of price. The lumber for the constructions and repairs on his farm, every bit of iron which he uses, every shred of clothing, all the comforts and luxuries which he naturally and properly seeks for his home, come to him with this addition to their cost. If he be a man of average property and family, he will probably find that the annual levy thus made upon him is sufficient to make all the difference between fair prosperity and something closely akin to poverty. One way or another, from wagons to pins and from rough lumber to writing paper, he probably pays to these cleverly hidden tax-gatherers at least one-quarter of his earnings. Let any farmer reckon what a difference it would make in the measure of his prosperity if his income could at once be increased by this

To show how this tariff tax falls upon our farmers, we give a list of the amount which has to be paid for a few of the common articles which they use.

List of Tariff Charges on Certain Articles in Common Use:

50 cents on the dollar. Iron Steel . . . 50 " Furniture . . . Blankets . . . Cotton Cloth Woollen Cloth . Manufactured Clothing Hats . . . . Socks Table Ware Glassand Earthen Ware 45 Carpets . . . Drugs and Medicines . 35 "

As the tariff levies a duty on several thousand articles, hundreds of which more or less directly affect the farmer's purse, the above list affords only samples of the taxation which weighs upon him.

The plan of The Herald was easy to understand. For centuries the iden-tity of the island which Columbus first landed upon had remained unknown. The quadricentennial of the discovery of the New World was about to be celby the New World was hood to be cel-brated in Chicago with a great exposi-tion, and The Herald thought it proper that the spot at which occurred the most tremendous event in history should be sought out and appropriately marked.

made by our government and the British admiralty.

Night and day study of the mystery of the discovery quickly showed these facts: In all history there is nothing that throws light upon the landfall save the journal expt by Columbus himself. Five islands had been put forward as the real San Salvador, and hundreds of books and pamphlets written in support of these theories. The correct theory must be based upon two conditions: The island itself must have certain features described by Columbus—lagoon, reefs, harbor hard by a headland through which the sea had cut its way, etc.—and it must lie at certain fleatures described by Columbus. As to the latter condition, inspection of the charts showed Watlings to be the only one that would fit the grometrical lines of Columbus first voyage through the Bahamas. If the contained the physical features which Columbus had found in his San Salvador, then the mystery was solved. Oddly enough, the learned historians, geographers and cartographers who had supported the claims of the rival islands of the rival islands of the rival islands.

Roger Bacon thought so, saying he fancied the distance from Spain to Asia was not so very great. Columbus thought so too. He never dreamed a continent lay between. He argued that he had only to sail westward and he would soon come to the eastern coast of China or Japan, or, as he called them. Chafan and Zipangu.

Columbus was aided by the map work of Toscanelli. This distinguished astronomer, who drew his map about 1470, calculated the circumference of the earth prodigiously near the truth—he made it only 124 miles too great. This accuracy for that day is simply amazing. Toscanelli, however, was all in dreamland about Asia; he elongated Asia till it covered the whole Pacific ocean. Then he pictured open ocean, beginning at about the longitude of California and extending east to Europe. Columbus pored over this map and carried it with him on his voyage as the nearest thing to a chart which was obtainable. Nevertheless Columbus had a theory of his own about the circumference of the earth. Columbus be-ical tendency they came naturally by, for this coral island was once the renderyou of infamous Blue Beard, and some of these poor people are no doubt his direct descendants.

But I could see little in this island save Christopher Columbus At every turn the great discoverer was suggested. The salt lagoon appeared to echo back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the sands of the short seemed in the back his name; the short his not an island, but could easily be made one, as an admirable sight for a fort; the harbor lying hard by, in which "all the ships of Christendom could lie." All these and many more of the things which Columbus the bitthplace of the New World.

A little bay, two miles from the "piece of land like an island," I chose after much exploration as the very spot at which the landing was made. That this island was the San Salvador of Columbus the back, was the more particular scene of the discovery I believe. In the nature of things it cannot be proved, though there is much in its favor. Near it is a high hill which Columbus probably first saw in the moonlight of that fateful morning. It is the first bit of coast to the south, free enough from reefs to permit safe landing. It is at a point whence Columbus would have rowed "north norther safe landing. It is at a point whence Columbus would have rowed "north norther safe landing. There are many other so called likenesses of Columbus. They are widely scattered and it is not easy to link them with the three shown above, which probably have the best claims to consideration. But these three have little in common. They would never be taken for portraits of the same person.

The most authoritative descriptions of the stature, complexion and personality of Columbus coincide, and yet the most generally accepted portraits are not in harmony. Many artists disregard the statement that his nose was aquiline and make it of a decidedly retrousse type; others portray him as a brunette type; others portray him as a brunette

The next time we see him he is a blond with a long, thin face, well covered with whiskers. We always know him, as the artist thoughtfully introduces his name; otherwise a lively guessing match might result. The style of the pictures would naturally suggest the celebrities of a few centuries ago. They might be taken for Plato, Othello the Moor, Alaric, Julius Cæsar, Richard III and a score of others whose faces figure in history. Even a composite of the many portraits could not blend or unite in one the discordant conceptions which we see every day. We must know Columbus by his lay. We must know Countries. deeds, and not by his pictures.

PORTRAITS OF COLUMBUS.

The public school pupils, who are going to have the lead all over America in the celebration of the 400th annivertary of the discovery of America by Columbus, are already asking how Columbus looked.

Many leading American publications have recently contained timely articles must be admitted in the trace of the details that not one of the portraits gives very positive evidence of presenting the great discoverer as he lived.

The earliest claimant for consideration is a wood engraving by Paolo Giorio, published in 1575, which we Jomard published in 1845 a portrait in support of a Titianesque canvas, which he had obtained at Vicenza. This picture bore the inscription "Christophorus Columbus." He claimed that the features were in accord with the description of writers contemporaneous with Columbus. The pointed beard and Flemish ruff he accounted for by assuming that they were the additions of a later hand. These and other accessories, however, prevented the acceptance of Jomard's views.

The striking workmen at Homestead have just found out a little matter which the rest of the world knew last July. They have discovered that the strike is off and have so declared it. The interest of the public now centres in the trials of parties of both sides for treason and murder.

The Republican party as a party stands pledged for honest money and its record in congress proves it. The Democratic party as a party stands committed for free silver and state banks and its record in congress proves it. In Minnesota the democrats and populists have fused on four candidates for presidential electors. This is good politics for the Democratic party but poor policy for the Peoples' party. A new party fighting for ideas and principles of its own should never become a tail to the political kite of another party. It at once brings the earnestness of the party into question and implies a willingness to sell its principles for some immediate advantage.

On that day let the people so far as possible, cease from toll and devote themselves to such exercises as may best express honor to the discoverer and their appreciation of the great achievement of the four completed centuries of Americas life.

from toil and devote themselves to such exercises as in the four completed centuries of ever and their appreciation of the great achievement of the four completed centuries of American life.

Columbus stood in his age as the pioneer of progress and enlightenment. The system of universal education is in our age the most prominent and salutary feature of the system enlightenment, and it is peculiarly appropriate that the schools be made by the people the center of the day's demonstration. Let the national flag float over every schoolhouse in country and the exercises be such as shall impress upon our youth the patriotic duties of American citizenship.

In the churches and the other places of assembly of the people let there be expressions of graitude to Divine Providence for the devout faith of the discoverer and for the Divine care and quidance which has directed our history and so abundantly blessed our people. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

CUTWORMS.

General Descriptions by Which Cutworms May Be Distinguished.

The term cutworm is very loosely applied, being often applied to the larve of the June bug, which cuts grass roots; to wireworms, the larve of the snapping beetles and even to the borers that cut channels in woody plants.

The term cutworm, according to Entomologist Harvey, of the Maine station, is principally confined by entomologists to larve of the ewite moths, that have the habit of hiding just under the surface of the ground during the day and feeding upon the roots, stems or leaves of plants by night. When the larves of plants by night. When the larves climb high and feed upon the foliage of tall trees or plants they are called climbing cutworms. The cutworms may be known by their descriptions furnished with cuts by Entomologist Harvey in a recent bulletin.

The moths known as dart or owlet with cuts by Entomologist Harvey in a recent bulletin.

The moths known as dart or owlet moths are triangular in shape when the wings are closed, and usually fly at night and often enter rooms where there is a light to attract them. The worms when full grown measure from one to two inches in length, have sixteen legs and thick body, which tapers somewhat at the ends, without hairs and greasy appearance; brown, gray or greenish, with indistinct oblique markings. The head long, shinning red or brown; head and anal segments armed above with a horny plate, darker than the remainder of the body. On each segment are six or eight dark colored lumps, each bearing a hair. (See second cut.) When disturbed the worms curl themselves into a ring, as shown in Fig. 1 in the second cut. There are between 300 and 400 American species related to the cutworms.

Preventive remedies of these pests consist in application of chemicals to the soil; protecting the plants so the worms cannot reach them with tin or paper tubes or frames; thick planting, so as to have a good stand after the worms have fully fed, and dusting the foliage with hellebore, ashes or slaked lime to make it unpalatable to the worms.

Late fall plowing and early spring plowing and late seeding are destructive remedies suggested. Spraying the foliage with london purple or paris green will kill species that attack the foliage. Shaking the trees or vines early in the morning and destroying the worms that fall, has been recommended for climbing cutworms. A preventive remedy strongly recommended by Lintner is soaking the seed in copperas water—one pound to the bushel of seed—allowing it to remain twelve hours and then rolling it in plaster. In reply to the oft repeated query,
"How to obtain winter eggs?" the agricultural editor of the New York Worls asys: "Secure pullets hatched in February and March. Keep them in a warm place. Feed with plenty of animal food, green stuff, sound grain, not too much soft food and do not change their surroundings." The Poultry World advises as follows: "Put the pullets that are to produce the eggs during the winter season in the quarters you intend them to occupy, so that they will become accustomed to the buildings and surroundings before winter. Give them ter season in the quarters you intend them to occupy, so that they will become accustomed to the buildings and surroundings before winter. Give them the best of care and feed, so that by Nov. I they will be in condition to commence laying in dead earnest. Give them free range if possible, and they will pick up the kind of food their systems require much easier than you could supply it for them. The numerous insects that make their appearance this month will prove a luxury for the birds, and will be very beneficial. Give them a good grain diet also each morning and evening; feed osts, wheat, buckwheat and a little corn, varied occasionally by a mash composed of boiled vegetables mixed with bran or shorts."

As the cold weather approaches all growing flocks ought to be culled. It will not pay to feed chickens that do not promise to make well marked pullets and cockerels. The sooner such are disposed of the better the profit will be, says The Fanciers' Journal, which gives this advice: "It is well to keep all growing chickens on unlimited range as long as snow is off the ground, and even the quarters at night should be roomy and well supplied with pure air. A tight shed open only to the south is about as good a place for cinickens as we know of, but care should be taken to prevent the degredations of skunks and other version."

positions equally all around the shock, and the laborer can hardly avoid making it equally upright.

This system will abridge steps and make the work much easier than cutting at random. As every shock requires the same order the operator soon becomes accustoned to it and works rapidly. The same general course will apply to larger shocks or to those made of smaller corn. With elight modification it will apply to corn in drills. The arrows show the direction for the operator to work. In making a single shock, if will require about ten rods walking, the shocks are built. Instead of placing the stalks in an equal circle around the center, they are often placed nearly all on one side, pressing them more or less out of the center, giving the shocks a one sided tendency and entirely prostrating a portion of them. —At the request of many friends, Miss Agues Hyde, the well known elecutionist, has decided to produce her original dramatic comedy, "Wanted, A Theatre Company," in the Odd-fellows Opera house, on November 18. This play was produced in Weymouth last April to a crowded house and was most enthusiastically received, many competent judges and also the press pronouncing it one of the brightest pieces they had seen staged for a long time. While of a comedy nature and abounding in amusing and laughable scenes, it is yet at times highly dramatic and even pathetic. We trust that those who did not see it last spring will avail themselves of this opportunity to do so and that those who did attend will enjoy hearing it again with the added effects of appropriate scenery and other improvements which will be made.

If GLORE THEATRE.—Mr. Digby Bell and his opera company made their first appearance in Boston in the Globe Theatre on young my might in the successful comic opera. "Jupiter." This was Mr. Bell's initial bows as a star and he scored the greatest kind of a hit in the double character of the king of Olympas and the Cobbler. The house was crowded with an enthusiastic audience that gave a hearty welcome to both star and operate and the both star and operate and the both star and operate of the John Joyce Bell. Jonies Montague, Josephine Knapp, The Misses Hollins and J. Addrich Libby. "Jupiter" is one of those light and useful aperas that are written to please, the surface of the finest. The costuming too is of the most gorgeous description. Jupiter will be given at the Globe during the entire engagement of Mr. Bell. The sale of seats so far has been surface a scalent business will be done. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

THE POOR There are thousands of people in the United States living upon slender incomes, widows and orphans, ministers, lawyers, doctors, teachers, clerks and others. The ar- Nov. 25. The Prince of Imtificial scale of prices, induced by excessive tariffs, works a peculiar hardship upon these people, for they must maintain a certain standard of living which compels them to use articles heavily taxed by the McKinley bill.

Surely, nothing should be taken from the small incomes of such people unless an equivalent is given in return. They are willing to pay their just share of taxes, and as a matter of fact they pay more, but they are hardly in a position to pay bounties to rich manufacturers.

The amount taken by the American manufacturers from such people when their necessities compel them to buy any article, may be small, but it has been taken, and nothing given to them in return. They are contributing to a bounty for the manufacturer, to enable him to make large profits out of his business. If a man with a salary of $1200 pays $50 a year in these bounties to the manufacturers, he has given up two weeks of his year to help out the Sugar Trust, Carnegie and others. IS THIS JUST? 12 the World's Fair.

Spain is now in the midst of a series of 'fetes in commemoration of the discovery of America which will last till late in October. On the 3d of Angust, date of the sailing of Columbus from Palos, the jubilation began, and of all the sights the exact reproduction of the flagship of Columbus, the Santa Maria, excited most amazement. Among the sailors in the vast gathering there was a loud choras of astonishment and unbelief. Almost unanimously they declared that such a ship had not done the thing—it was impossible.

THE NEW SANTA MARIA.

It is indeed hard to believe that the little caravel of 240 tons at the outside could have made such a voyage, and when one compares it with the large sailing vessels of today he may well be incredulous. With the achievements of steam and practical science we are tolerably familiar, but the fact then collerably familiar, but the fact then of steam and practical science we are tolerably familiar, but the fact ther incredulous. With the achievements of steam and practical science we are tolerably familiar, but the fact then (though sailing vessels autoclate written history, the progress therein since 1492 is as great as in anything else) comes to one as a great surprise. Compare the little Santa Maria with, for instance, the magnificent Shenandoah, the American four masted bark and queen or all sailing vessels, which a few months ago went from San Francisco to Liverpool with 5,002 tons of wheat on board.

Consider first the big sailer. The Shenandoah, commanded by Captain Murphy, was one of the five which left the Bay of 1. an Francisco last year on the famous race around the Horn. They sailed at high tide, of necessity, as they drew twenty-seven feet of water. The weight of wheat aboard, 5,002 tons, was the greatest cargo of the kind everplaced in a versel and equivalent to 166,723 bushels, or the crop of an average agricultural county. An adequate description of the Shenandoah would fill a column. Sailer as she is, she "makes sail by steam," as sailors say—that is, the sails are pulled into place by a little donkey engine, and of all glorious sights to the seaman's eye there well from hare poles to full rig of snowy sails in less than five minutes.

The Santa Maria might have been placed on the deck of the Shenandoah without adding perceptibly to her weight of cargo. She was a decked vessel, and while the Spanish historians do not deal in exact measurements they are so minute in details of her capacity that her size is known. Captain Gustavus W. Fox, after a very careful exicultation, declares that her length was "63 feet over all and 57 feet along her keep, with 20 feet beam and 10½ feet in depth. Her crew consisted of fifty seame, and in the list are found the names of the sailing was wrecked on Christmas eve, 1492, on the coast of Hispanola, a calamity due to the great of the sailing master.

Englishman and one Irishman. It is really a pity that this list is not certainly authentic; it would be interesting to know the name of the first Irish emigrant to America. This historic vessel was wrecked on Christmas eve, 1492, on the coast of Hispaniola, a calamity due to the gross carclessness of the sailing master.

EDNA DEAN PROCTOR.

Miss Edna Dean Proctor, the descendant of a highly honored New England family, was born at Henniker, N. H. in early life she became a contributor to the best literary publications and published a volume of poems, mostly patriotic, which gave her a leading place among American poets. After traveling extensively in the cast she wrote "A Russian Journey" in a vivid, picturesque Latin style, which has become a classic.

SCHOOL FLAG.

The ten cent pieces were gathered to gether and a splendid bunting flag of ample size was ordered. Then half a dozen of the older boys-selected a straight young trace for a pole, cut it down, trimmed off the branches and in a short time the flagstaff, properly fitted with halyards, was raised.

It was decided to raise the flag on Oct. 17, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the admission of their state into the Union. The boys and girls worked like beavers during the days that intervened to arrange n demonstration which would be a credit to Columbia Corners. The eventful day came at last, and it seemed as though everybody in the county was on hand to see the flag raised. Cheer after cheer went up when its stars and stripes were thrown in the breeze. The band swelled the chorus with the "Star Spangled Banner." Then came the presentation the address of acceptance and the of doing a really daring thing for the national emblem was of the sort that appealed to the imagination, and made for her a happy fame. But in spite of desirable invitations to other schools Miss Feuton remained at her humble desk at the Corners for two years. Then the principalship of the Aurora Literary Institute for young ladies was pressed upon her in such terms that she could no longer refuse to accept the larger responsibilities.

Mr. Williams is still a member of the school committee of Columbia Corners, and he never drives by the school house without stopping to look at the stars and tripes which are raised every morning of the session. If a friend is with him he always relates the story of Miss Fenton's school flag movement and her defense of it. "And now the young ones get out and cheer 'Old Glory' every day. And when there is an anniversary of anything big in the history of the country they have to have a time over it around the flagpole. Columbus Day is coming, and we're not going to be outdone here by any school in the state. All the folks 'round in the district are going to come here and help the school celebrate old Columbus. We've got to get a new flag for that day, I reckon! that one is getting to look like one of our old hattleflags." Then he goes back to Miss Fenton, who started it all, and after vividly describing how the mild looking the determined little teacher equal to the emergency.

It was Friday afternoon and the school work for the week was about over. One of the boys was listlessly erasing the written exercises from the blackboard, when, chancing to glance through the window, he saw something which at once made him all attention. Two men, whom he recognized as Pete Johnson and Jack Welsh, were entering the schoolyard. They were both notorious characters and had been arrested some months before charged with having set fire to a barn. There was not sufficient evidence upon which to hold them and the shoriff had reluctantly released them. horizon of American activities and the truth of this assertion comes back to us with redoubled force.

A great national event, however, shows Americans at their best. The Columbian exposition will offer proof of this statement.

The national public school celebration of Oct. 12 will be particularly unique in character. It has no parallel in American history. The public school has never been the center of a strictly national demonstration. It stands pre-eminently at the head of

COLUMBUS DAY.

Weymouth Celebrates in Four Villages.

Lessons in Patriotism and Love for the Flag.

Last Friday, the 21st of October 1802, was a notable day in the history of the Weymouth Public Schools. As in the early days of the Civil war Weymouth was one of the first towns to give liberally of her sons to defend the Union, so in the particular celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the Discovery of America by Christopher Columbus Weymouth again came to the front and her celebration was one of the best, one of the most patriotic and most enthusiasite of any in the country. As was proper and as was intended by the national committee the school children across from corner to corner,—the most elaborate decorations of the day—down Washington street to the corner of Richmond. Here the line was halted while the band and the secont of G. A. R. Veterans and the Sons of Veterans went up to the Taits school where the three thr with the life and work of Columbus athhough some of the salient points in the history of our country were touched upon. At the Jefferson school there was much enthusiasm in the observance of the day, not only on the part of the scholars and teachers, but by citizens generally, who were interested in the exercises and the oath of allegiance to the flag. The likehell school was not behind in its observance of the day, the teachers there having some specially fine exercises and the school made a fine appearance in The Grand Army of the Republic was

The marching of the schools was excellent as was that also of the orders and the scoot, but the school dwar the first time they ever obeyed the orders "fours right, march!" "file left, march!" "open order, march!" etc., and that they marched so firmly and carried themselves throughout so steadily was a matter of surprise and pride to the parents and friends who lovingly watched the lines move past. That an immense amount of painstaking labor on the part of the teachers is too obvious to need comment.

The procession which stretched from Richmond street nearly to the Brick Store, moved slowly, accommodating its pace to the short legs of the primary scholars and as it passed through y agreat through y agreat and as it passed through y agreat and a street passed through y agreat and as it passed through y agreat in the passed through y agreat through y agreat in the passed through y agreat in the passed through y agreat in the passed th

The more people are becoming acquainted with Mr. Merrill, the more are they ceninced that the most desirable man has been nominated for Senator.

Coming before the people with a diff-long susiness prestige, and one who understands the practical side of life, Mr. Merrill shows blandantly that he is fitted by nature for the position to which he has been nominated.

the position to which he has been nominated.

It is a fact worthy of note that Mr. Merrill is spoken of with the highest respect by his Democratic as well as his Republican friends, and this alone, showing that he is an honest and upright man, should be sufficient to secure for him the election of senator.

Then again his previous service in office of the position for which he has commanded and unless all signs fail, he will be elected by a flattering vote.

Should he achieve success at the polis on November 8th, Mr. Merrill will be found advocating those issues which affect the whole people of this district, and not merely a party. heard of, and I am sure that if you knew my brother's condition-before he commenced the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the cure would much surprise you."

We do not wonder that this remarkable restoration to health is looked upon as almost a miracle, in Mansfield, where, perhaps the marvelous virtues of the remedy were until now not known, but the cure does not surprise us in the least, for it is something which is taking place constantly in our vicinity, no day, scarcely an hour in fact, passing in which we do not learn of it curing someone who has been suffering from nervous weakness, blood disorder, kidney or liver complaints, insomania, malaria or stomach trouble. It is a fact that this wonderful medicine cures the sick, and is perfectly harmless to use, being purely vegetable. Druggits keep it for $1.

A REPUBLICAN ORATION DONE INTO VERSE. My friends; here tonight, I shall show to you clearly

That you get a thing cheap when you pay for it dearly. The tariff's no tax, for it lowers all prices, This neatest of all back-action devices;
The foreigners pay all our Uncle Sam's duties,
For the mere inn of decking our sweet Yankee beauties;
And the paupers, who never have meat for a ration,
Are paying the bills for our lusty young nation;
Those paupers, 'gainst whom we cannot compete,
Are casting their millions down at our feet.
Ear the actiffs no tax-account most those Those paupers, 'gainst whom we cannot compete,
Are casting their millions down at our feet.
For the tariff's no tax—except upon them—
The question 's of markets, not morals—ahem I
As I've said before, the tariff's no tax,
But a burden we viace on those o'er-laden backs!
The paupers themselves, an unnumbered band,
Come in duty free, with our men to compete.
Now I saw it declared in a low mugwamp sheet,
That the lax on timplate was a fraud and a sin.
This medal I wear, of American tin,
This medal I wear, of American tin,
Hero take the sum of the this our set there's and wives.
We buy up nig silver and store it away,
The mine o'tners take our mere promise to pay,
And bligger each day the buillon pile grows,
Though what it is good for, nobody knows—
But we are sound money men and we give up our thanks
That we are not as the wicked State banks;
We think that the soldier is treated all right
If we pension all men who have read of a fight.
You are all getting rich; your wages are high,
The mills wheels spin round, the swift shuttles fly,
The harvests are garaered of rich golden grain,
The man who grows sugar gets bountles galore
(Dan't you men who grow wheat make a noise at the door),
The country will smash and famine will stride
Across our fair land if you turn out our side.
List all ye freemen to my loud trumpet blast,
Our market—that's you—we must hold to the last!

This Cilbert and Sullivan political economy will t deter the "Home Market"—the people—from voting for Cleveland and Tariff Reform.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

A Sizze of Giory.

It has been said that the days of torch lights and parades were over, and that henceforth campaigns were to be carried on in a different way, but any person laboring under that delusion might have disabused his mind of any such fancy, had he been in East Weymouth Monday night. When we say the village was "painted red" we put it very mild; the republicans When we say the village was "painted tred" we put it very mild; the republicans very the tred in a most magnificent style, (Little had been said, previous to Saturday night, in regard to the parade but when once started it gathered a column like a mighty avalanche and every body was "in lit" before Monday night.

The "Loveli littles" with T. B. Loud captain; Augustus Tirrellagins, Charles E. Cushing second, and H. A. Taber third captain; Augustus Tirrellagins, Charles E. Cushing second, and H. A. Taber third and arrangements at once made to have a parade Monday night.

In response to the invitation the following organizations were present and helped to make a most excellent display: E. A. Morse battalion, Weymouth; Graham club, Quincy; Rockland club; North Weymouth; Sweedish Republican club, Quincy; and H. A. Thomas battalion, South Weymouth.

H. A. Thomas battalion, South Wey-mouth.

Jackson square was the rendezvous of the several organizations and at 8 o'clock, headed by the Weymouth Band and in combination of the several organizations and at 8 o'clock, headed by the Weymouth Band and in combination of the several transfer of the

be that all the restrictive legislation which we now have on the statute book would be immediately wiped out, and all the ground now held would be lost, and Massachusetts would become a free rum state from Cape Cod to the Berkshire hills. I submit, is such a course the part of practical wisdom and sound sense?

Let us take another more local illustration. The city of Brockton in this district has more than 30,000 inhabitants; it is more than 30,000 inhabitants; it is not all the control of the co Fourth—A bill forbidding the sale of tobacco to minors in the District of Columbia.

Fifth—The Wilson bill to correct the infamous decision of Grover Cleveland's Chief Justice, Fuller, which decision in the absence of legislation to the courtary, allowed trink to be sold in original package in the country than all other diseases put together, and all it requires to make it as "original package" was to carry it across a state line.

Had the prohibitionists succeeded in electing Grover Cleveland for a second term, as their votes in New York State cleeted him the first time, he would most undoubtedly have veteed that bill, in harmony with the decision of Chief Justice Failer, and we should now have had alson and we should now have had alson and the Rio Grande.

My prohibition friends can well pray to be delivered from themselves,"

The congressman then discussed the position of the two parties upon the question of honest and sound finance, also the relations of the McKinley bill to the present growth and prosperity of the country. The meeting concluded at a late hour with three cheers for the candidates.

Boston is the centre of advantage and the control of the second of the control of the candidates.

Washington Letter

(From our regular correspondent.)

Washington, Oct. 24, 1822.

Will the people's party hold the balance of power in the United States senate after March 4, 18302; is asked quite often among politicians of late. There is certainly a chance of it, and many who are opposed to the new party think it not only possible but probable. The situation in a nut shell is as follows: the holdover members and the senators already elected for the term beginning March 4, next, make the senate stand 31 republicians, 31 democrats, and

A Great Gift to the People.

There have been great advancements in medical science during the last few years. It no longer surprises us to hear that the blind see, the deaf hear, the lame walk. Heretofore sufferers from nervous and chronic diseases could have a cure of their cases accomplished only cities at great expense of travel and professional fees. At the present day all this is changed. A celebrated specialist in the cure of nervous and chronic diseases, known all over the United States on account of his enormous practice, great skill, and the thousands of sufferers he has restored to health by his system of harmless vegetable remedies, proposes to send to all sufferers from any form of nervous or long-standing diseases, a valuable written diagnosis of the sufferer from the travel fore and talling buy there can be crust. fore
